Supervision & Probation Compliance Tracker

A simple system for meeting every condition and proving you did.

Supervision is won or lost on paperwork and small habits, not big moments. Most violations are not new crimes. They are missed check-ins, a fee that did not get paid, a form filed late, a message not returned. This tracker exists so that never happens to you by accident.

Print this and keep it where you will see it. Fill it in the moment something happens, not later. A record of compliance puts you in a far stronger position at every review.

Your conditions, in one place

Read your judgment or supervision agreement and copy each condition here in your own words. The standard federal conditions are published by the U.S. Courts, but your own order controls.

Your officer and key contacts

Supervising officer name: _____

Officer phone / email: _____

Next scheduled check-in: _____

The weekly self-check

Run this every week. It takes five minutes and prevents almost every accidental violation.

- ☐ Did I make every required check-in or call this week?
- ☐ Did I respond to every message from my officer in time?
- ☐ Am I current on every fee, fine, and restitution payment?
- ☐ Did I attend every required class, test, treatment, or meeting?
- ☐ Did I stay within any travel, location, or curfew limits, and keep proof?

Check-in log

Date	Type (visit / call / message)	What was said or required	Done?

Payment log

Date	What it was for	Amount	Receipt / confirmation #

If something goes wrong

- Tell your officer before they find out another way. A problem you report is very different from one you hid.
- If you will miss a check-in or payment, say so in advance and in writing. Keep a copy.
- Early termination of supervision is often possible after clean compliance. This record is the evidence that earns it.
